

Thanksgiving at Grandma's

Holidays are special days when there is no school, many moms and dads don't have to go to work, and special things happen.

Thanksgiving is a holiday on the last Thursday of November. There is no school and there are lots of parades on TV. This Thanksgiving Mom, Dad and I will go to Grandma's house to eat a special meal and visit with Grandma, Grandpa, aunts, uncles and cousins.

First we will drive for one hour to Grandma's house.

Then we will have dinner time: a special meal, called Thanksgiving Dinner. There will be turkey and lots of food. I can try some new foods if I like, but it is okay if I eat my usual food that I like. Mom and Dad will bring my usual food.

After dinner, people will have visit time: they will talk or watch TV. Some of the children will play. I can be with the other people in the TV room or play room or kitchen. I will try my best to play a little bit and Mom and Dad will be happy. I can be by myself too. It is okay to be by myself sometimes.

There will be a lot of people there, so if I need a break, Mom will help me find a quiet break area. It is okay to ask for a break when I need a break. Mom and Dad are happy when I use my break card to ask for a break.

After visit time, Mom, Dad and I will drive back to our home. It may take longer than one hour because of traffic. Traffic happens when there are lots of cars on the same road at the same time.

At the end of Thanksgiving Day, Mom, Dad and I will be back home in our house.
