

PARENT TO PARENT

As parents navigate the systems of care for their child with Autism, they find comfort and support from other families living with Autism.

Parent to Parent was created from this concept. Parent coaches work to educate and support families as they begin their journey in learning about and living with Autism.

PARENT TO PARENT

A Parent Coaching Series

Parent to Parent

The Autism Project is a partnership of professionals and parents who work to support and educate the community so they may embrace children and adults with autism.

A parent brings a unique perspective to the series as they live with autism. Through their personal experiences, they bring sensitivity and knowledge of the day-to-day joys and challenges of raising a child with autism.

Parent to Parent is a unique training series where parents are trained to collaborate with other parents to teach how to create an environment for their child to be successful. Parent coaches bring their experiences and education to support families who are beginning their journey.
